THE TERROIR

This Bourgogne Chardonnay is made principally from grapes grown in the southern part of Burgundy where high levels of limestone in the soils combine with ideal ripening conditions to give this wine its rounded flavour.

DID YOU KNOW?

Chardonnay is the emblematic white grape variety of Burgundy and it thrives throughout the Auxerre region, the Côtes de Nuits and Côtes de Beaune, the Côte Chalonnaise and the Mâconnais. It gives attractive, elongated bunches of small golden grapes bursting with delicious, clear, sweet juice.
